Legal wikis: in search of credibility

The wiki is a simple way to share information and to unite people around projects available on the Internet.

In light of our experience on the JurisPedia (<http://www.jurispedia.org>) project, we will present the wiki use for the access to legal information and we'll focus on our efforts to accomplish a quality project that would not be a "wikipedia of the Law".

We will see that it is possible to channel contributions made on this media to improve knowledge of the laws in the world, including the establishment of reliable semantic structures.
